TRILLIUM HEALTH PARTNERS RECEIVES $4 MILLION FOR CANCER CARE
Donation announced as hospital celebrates important anniversaries

(Mississauga, ON) – Today, during a celebration of the 30th anniversary of the Credit Valley Hospital and the 10th anniversary of the Carlo Fidani Regional Cancer Centre, Trillium Health Partners announced a $4 million gift from the estate of Jayne Munro.

“Today, we celebrate these important anniversaries for our Credit Valley Hospital site and the Carlo Fidani Regional Cancer Centre as one hospital, together with our Mississauga Hospital site and Queensway Health Centre site,” said Michelle DiEmanuele, President and CEO, Trillium Health Partners. “This hospital has and will continue to make a real difference in the life of our community. This is made possible by the dedicated work of our staff, physicians and volunteers and by the support and generosity of families like the Munros.”

The gift will go toward funding priorities in the cancer care program, including the expansion of the surgical suites, the creation of our regional surgical robotics program, and the development of our new comprehensive women’s imaging centre.

The Munros were passionate about health and wellness for all Canadians. They were also deeply committed to establishing greater health care so that patients could experience comprehensive, patient-first care in their own community.

“As we mark this 10-year milestone for the Carlo Fidani Regional Cancer Centre, we are so honoured to also be able to announce this incredible gift that advances cancer care,” said Steve Hoscheit, President and CEO, Trillium Health Partners Foundation. “This is an opportunity to celebrate the generosity and legacy of the Munro family. Their gift will help cancer patients in our community experience comprehensive, sustainable and accessible care for generations to come”
